About the artwork

I use the image of a little girl talking to a flower as a representation of healing and hope. Our childhood is a magical treasure that we keep in a secret place of our memory storerooms. This is an invitation to open the treasure and feel the moment with the freshness and curiosity of a child. I hope to call the senses of our child-self to smell the colors and dance to their tunes, and to give our wounds gentle kisses, wishing them to heal.
