About the artwork

This artwork offers a minimalist yet profound visualization of a woman's journey, using abstract shapes, colors, and textures to map her odyssey. To me, women emerge from a mystical, glowing realm, embarking on a path guided by the divine to discover, create, and shine as they evolve.

The circles symbolize the different life cycles of a woman: from the soft, pink innocence of childhood, to the vibrant, fiery energy of youth, then moving into the nurturing stage of motherhood and the fullness of femininity at the center. As time progresses, the cycle reflects periods of decline, marked by dullness and dryness, before rising once more toward wisdom and the gifts earned through a lifetime of experiences.

Textures are carefully chosen to represent the nature of each stage. The use of geofabric textile illustrates a woman's remarkable capacity to absorb and embrace the full spectrum of emotions and experiences she encounters.

Colors are selected based on the chakra wheel, representing the stages of spiritual and personal growth. The directional flow of the composition reflects the evolution of a woman's life, capturing both the ups and downs she faces.

The golden thread running through the piece signifies the sacred connection and divine guidance that supports her journey.

Finally, the fleshy tones in the background evoke the fragility, delicacy, and fluidity of the human experience, grounding the work in the profound vulnerability that defines our existence.
